U-53 TOOK LIFE OF ARCH LEEDY REPORT SAYS

Naval Officers Captured
Later Tell Story Learned at Hun Naval Base

WERE ON U-BOAT WHICH RAIDED AMERICAN WATERS

Declare Huns Disregard Signal of Surrender Hoisted by Ship

Arch Leedy, the first Newark man to die in action against the enemy, was the victim of a torpedo from the German submarine U-53, which made a "friendly" visit to the shores of the United States in 1916, and later made a disastrous raid on merchant shipping along the southern New England coast. This fact is disclosed in the story of the sinking of the U. S. Transport Teconderoga, sunk last September, followed by the capture of two naval officers who tell the story in a report to the navy department. Leedy was on the Jacob Jones, the first U. S. naval vessel to be sunk by the enemy. The destroyed was sunk December 6, 1917. According to the report of the naval officers who tell the story, the commander of the U-53 called for help for the crew of the Jacob Jones, after recognizing Ensign Bagley, a relative of Secretary Daniels.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The American destroyer Jacob Jones, sunk off the Irish coast by a German submarine December 6, 1917, was torpedoed by the U-53, the vessel which visited Newport Rhode Island, in the summer of 1916 and later harried allied merchant shipping off the New England coast. This fact was disclosed in the report of Lieutenants E. L. Muller and J. H. Fulcher, U. S. N., who were captured by the submarine U-53, which sank the cargo transport Teconderoga, Sept. 30, 1918, and released when the German submarine flotilla was surrendered Nov. 24, after they had spent nearly two months on the submarine in American waters and at the German submarine base at Kiel.

The report, made public Sunday night by the navy department, showed also that the German officer commanding the U-53 when the Jones was destroyed, Captain von Schrader, was aboard the boat when it was at Newport. He there saw Lieutenant Commander David Worth Bagley, a nephew of the wife of Secretary Daniels, who commanded the Jacob Jones.

Von Schrader told the captured American officer that he had recognized Bagley, the story of the sinking, destroy and sent out a wireless message appended to the report, presumably by Vice Admiral Sims, said such a call was picked up at Queenstown, but that its origin had been a mystery.

The U-53, which after the sinking of the Teconderoga and taking Muller and Fulcher aboard, continued to American waters to raid shipping, encountered the U-52 on her way back to Kiel, after all German submarines had been recalled near the end of the war.

Besides telling of the destruction of the Jacob Jones, Captain von Schrader said that six weeks earlier in the Bristol Channel he had sunk an American escort ship, believed to have been the former coast guard cutter Tampa, which went down with all hands on board, and had fired a torpedo at the American scout cruiser Chester. The Tampa was sunk last September 26 and the navy department said there was no evidence that the U-53 was in the vicinity. The Chester was not hit.

The two American officers in their joint report to Admiral Sims told a detailed story of events on the submarine, which had been captured by the British. They spoke also of their unique experience in being the only passengers so far as known, to have traveled from Germany to Harwich, England, with the flotilla of enemy submarines surrendered two weeks after the signing of the armistice.

The Teconderoga, which was going to France with a cargo of railway cars and 113 army personnel in addition to her naval crew, had fallen behind her convoy in misty weather when she was attacked with shrapnel fire by the U-52, which fired 40 shots, demolishing the radio house and killing four members of the six-inch gun crew before the cruiser Galveston hove in sight and drove the enemy off.

More than an hour later the U-52 reappeared and pounded the Teconderoga with 40 more shots, which finally reached the engine and fire rooms. The order to abandon ship was given, but a sheet hoisted in the rigging as a sign of surrender was not noticed by the submarine, and according to the report, Fulcher "waved a pillar of smoke from the deck." The captain of the transport had been wounded, as had Fulcher, Muller, the executive officer, and Fulcher, who was first assistant engineer, agreed on the terms nothing to do but surrender as many of the men aboard had been killed.

After the Teconderoga went down at 1:32, after "shaking out barrels of potatoes and onions" from the floating wreckage, picked up Muller, who was taken for the commandant of the ship, and later Fulcher. The report said that Captain Ering of the U-52 "was under the impression that the after gun of the transport had continued firing after the sheet had been hoisted."

Many wounded men on rafts or in the water pleaded with the Germans to be taken aboard, as they had no food or water or chance of life if left to their fate, but Ering told them he had "room for no more" and cast them adrift.

Muller and Fulcher made no complaint of their treatment aboard the submarine, which was outward bound from Kiel for the American coast on her second trip, and which continued into the Gulf Stream on the lookout for allied shipping. First news of the armistice negotiations came by radio with the message: "Engage men of war only, the merchant war is ended."

The Americans were told by the Ger-

INJURY TO RICHARDS RESULTS IN PARALYSIS

Fred Richards was seriously injured Saturday at one of the Heisey gas wells at Thorville where he was employed. Richards crawled out on the walking beam to oil the pulleys and the beam lifted pinching him between the roof of the derrick house and the walking beam.

One of the drillers came to his aid and rescued him by stopping the machinery and tying a rope around Richards and then to the bolder starting the engine and letting him down to the floor. Bradley's ambulance was called and took him to his home in Hebron and Dr. Brown attended him and found he was paralyzed from his hips down.

He was brought to this city on the 4 o'clock car and taken to Dr. Baxter's office where an X-ray was taken to learn if any bones were broken.

Later Richards was removed to the City hospital.

LIFELESS BODY IS FOUND BESIDE GUN

William Holler, Formerly Residing Near St. Louis, Takes Own Life In Field Near Home.

Lying in a pool of his own blood the lifeless body of William Holler was found in a field of his farm, seven and a half miles northeast of Utica, in Oneida county, by his neighbors about 8 o'clock this morning. Near the body was a shot gun which he had taken from the house when he left about 6 o'clock to feed the stock.

Holler was 36 years old and is survived by a widow and six children. No reason was assigned for the rash deed, other than that he had been having stomach ailment lately. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holler residing east of this city. He is survived also by two sisters in this city, Miss Fannie Holler, a rural carrier on route seven out of this city and Mrs. Jack Chaney residing in Sixteenth street and by a brother Guy living at Wilkins Corner. He was also a nephew of Edward King, the well-known transferman residing at 197 South Fifth street.

Holler formerly resided on the George Coal farm near St. Louisville, moving from there only about two months ago. He had many friends in this city.

MASS TROOPS TO QUELL UPRISING

Units of Government Soldiers Join Revolt and Fortify Selves in Mountains.

Lisbon, Sunday, Jan. 26.—The government is assembling large bodies of troops to put down the royalist rebellion at Oporto says an official statement issued today in which the republican victory over the rebellious Lisbon troops at Monsanto Hill, near the capital, is described. The statement says: "A certain number of units belonging to the Lisbon garrison declared in favor of the Oporto royalist rebels on Jan. 23. They left their barracks and took up positions in the mountains of Monsanto above Lisbon. Their forces were composed of one regiment of cavalry and three batteries of field artillery."

The government immediately ordered faithful troops to surround the position and opened lists for the enrollment of civilian battalions under the command of army officers. In a few hours more than 8,000 enrolled. The rebels were surrounded and promptly defeated. Their guns were captured and what remained of their cavalry left in disorder, closely pursued by the

Vinton's Liberty Loan Boat Will Have Girl Sponsor

MARGARET FISCHER

NOT a very big girl, Margaret. And when she stands up alongside of a great ocean boat she will not look any bigger.

But she is going to christen a boat just the same. Vinton County, Ohio, has chosen her—Margaret Fischer of Zaleski, Ohio—to be sponsor for the boat which that county won the right to name. Vinton County won the distinction in the last Liberty Loan campaign when it was the first county in the Cincinnati area to attain its quota in Liberty Bond sales. The county's quota was $120,500, and it had subscribed that amount at the end of the first day of the drive. Its final subscriptions totaled $158,850.

The boat is being built in one of the big government ship yards and probably will be ready for the launching in Spring.

UNCLE SAM HAS BIG APPETITE NOW FOR SAFE INVESTMENTS

BETWEEN TWENTY AND TWENTY-FIVE MILLION BOND BUYERS TAKE ELEVEN BILLION IN YEAR.

Pessimists who shake their heads and join the chorus of "I dunno" boys at the prospect of fleecing a Fifth Liberty Loan in April are given food for thought in some figures which have recently been compiled by officials of the Treasury Department at Washington.

The figures give us some idea of just how big an appetite for safe investment this country has attained in its war-year.

Some of the more striking of the figures referred to follow:

A bond market which had less than 300,000 customers two years ago had at the close of 1918 between 28,000,000 and 25,000,000 buyers.

The army of buyers absorbed $11,165,665,850 worth of bonds in Liberty Bonds alone in 1918.

In the two years of the war—counting the first and second Liberty Loans which were floated in 1917—these bond buyers digested a total of $16,747,432,925 in Liberty Bonds.

A further development which has the optimistic tone is in the market which bond dealers find right now for every sort of bonds—municipal, school, industrial, etc. Bond dealers are selling out all legitimate offerings with such celerity that they are continually seeking about the country for new issues to market.

This healthy condition of the bond market is explained, perhaps, by the fact that the entire indebtedness of the United States today amounts to slightly less than 7 per cent of the estimated national wealth. The national debt amounts to only about $170 per capita.

Some of the national debts are: Great Britain, 42.5 per cent of national wealth or $360 per capita; France, 41.25 per cent of national wealth or $260 per capita; Austria, 34.66 per cent of national wealth or $24.50 per capita; and Germany, 38.7 per cent of national wealth or $305.90 per capita.

These figures on Germany are exclusive of the ninth war loan, accurate returns of which never were had, and in the cases of both Austria and Germany no account is taken of any indemnities which those nations may have to pay.

Japan is the only big nation which has a lower per capita debt in relation to its wealth than the United States.

It is curious how episodes of the Boer war are recalled by the world conflict, says a writer in the Yorkshire Post. In our issue for May 16, 1900, for instance, we published an account of the bravery in the field of Private E. Wischusen, who threw a live shell over a cliff during an engagement.

Now his son, Private Eric Wischusen, duke of Cambridge's Middlesex regiment, has proved himself to be no less brave. As a parchment certificate from his commanding officer shows, in a raid near Voormezeele, on June 19-20, he was "conspicuous for his determination and bravery." Despite a heavy artillery and machine-gun barrage, he reached the enemy trenches, cleared them, and finally covered the raiders' withdrawal, "showing complete disregard to his own safety."

Private Wischusen, who is only twenty, is now in hospital at Lowestoft with a shot wound in his leg. His home is in Hornsey.

Oil Near Old Indian Cemeteries.

Geologists are unable to explain the fact, proven in Osage county, that oil wells drilled adjacent to Indian cemeteries are good producers. Many such burial sites have been invaded by drillers and in more instances than one riches in crude oil have spouted forth. The largest producer in the vicinity of Pawhuska was drilled beside an Indian graveyard. It is on the summit of a high, rocky hill that overlooks the town.—From the Oklahoma.

Easy Immobilization.

In birds and mammals immobilization can be occasioned at will. In the seventh century Kircher immobilized fowls merely by turning them upon their backs. The experiment can be successfully made with any kind of bird. I have performed it with sparrows, with a wryneck and with the finch immediately after their capture, thus excluding all idea of training. The same result can be obtained with various mammals especially with mice.—Exchange.

Bug Apiary.

An interesting picture of a large apiary on a reception mountain side was shown in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The slope has been cut into terraces twelve to fifteen feet high on which more than 300 swarms of bees are housed, each hive being placed on a separate foundation. The land put to this profitable use would be worth little for any other purpose. The hives, being high up, are favored by the summer breezes and are warmed by the sun in winter.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Yesterday's Paris dispatches tell us that the peace league principle has been unanimously adopted and that President Wilson and Colonel E. M. House will be the American representatives on the committee on the body that is to frame the organization. The purpose of the league is to prevent future wars and to promote the general welfare of the world as a whole.

Latest reports from the peace conference indicate that the constitution of the proposed league of nations will leave each government free to make its own decisions. The league will take action against any nation that refuses to abide by its decrees. But each government would decide for itself whether it would send its army or navy to help enforce these decisions. A league thus organized would not be open to the objections that many have seen in the plan.

For some years of course such a league would be experimental. Its success would depend upon the degree of harmony with which the nations work together. This government would not be likely to commit itself in advance to support the decrees the league might pronounce. But as time went on and the league demonstrated its usefulness, there would be a tendency for the nations to back it up more and more firmly.

A league constituted as above suggested would command very powerful forces even if it never went to war. A combination of the United States, England, France and Italy, would in all human probability always be able to control the seas.

Any nation that defied this combination would be driven off the ocean and lose its foreign commerce, for a time at least. The experiences of Germany have demonstrated that it is very difficult for a government to conduct a war successfully, without free use of the sea. And the loss of its commerce paralyzes a nation's business.

It is of course possible that Germany might again try to overcome the combination by some sudden attack on land so crushing that she would get her way even without sea power. The result of her recent efforts along this line could not be encouraging even to the most blinder junker. But it is a possibility that must ever be kept in mind.

REDUCING FOOD COSTS.

The idea that the business of food production needs reorganization is not one held merely by easy chair philosophers and smart newspaper fellows who never saw a hoe nearer than a railroad car window. It is the prevailing scientific expert opinion. For instance, Elwood Mead, chairman of the California Land Settlement Board, in a recent magazine article says, "The time has come for a sweeping reorganization of our agrarian system." He refers to American dealings with the soil as a form of anarchy, and says the losses by exhaustion of the soil through lack of fertilization and failure properly to rotate crops, have been more destructive than if all the farm houses and buildings in this country had been swept away by fire.

The first respect in which farming is not efficient as compared with factory production, is that farming has not employed machinery to anything the same extent. Farm tractors for instance are revolutionizing conditions on many properties. But the people do not begin to realize yet how generally they could be used. There is a steep hillside country in Oregon and Washington where tractors are working on slopes of 50 per cent grade. One farmer in that section who bought a tractor last spring said last September that it had already nearly paid for itself. In one country in this district it is said that the use of harvester and thresher "combines" had saved the time of 500 men.

And this great economy of man power, and cost of subsistence of workers, was made by just one type of machine. Now if similar economies could be made in every agricultural county in the country, in all the various processes of farm work, so far as local conditions permit the total saving would be almost unbelievable. Any progressive farmer could expect a large measure of prosperity. His output would be greatly increased. He could afford to sell his products for less money for a given quantity. The feed price question would be largely solved.

REDUCING THE COSTS.

The Advocate received a well written letter from a Licking county farmer recently on "Reducing food costs." Mr. Farmer, whose name is withheld by request, naturally views the situation from the agriculturist's standpoint and it is with pleasure that his views are here presented:

Editor Advocate—Under the above heading an editorial in yesterday's Advocate deals with some prises of food production, and like the average consumer of the city, you seem to think that the place to reduce food costs is to begin with the producer of food, the farmer. Has it ever occurred to you that you consumers in the city might reduce food costs considerably if you were so inclined; without menacing food production by constantly hammering at the farmer as the main cause of the high cost of food? A survey made by the Ohio Experiment Station in connection with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and covering all sections of Ohio shows that the average farmer in Ohio producing corn, wheat, oats, potatoes and hay after allowing for 6.6 per cent on his investment at present prices is earning a wage scarcely square to that of the ordinary workman on the railways or highways of the state. With such a low wage scale coupled with the lonely hours of farm work it is any wonder that there are hundreds of empty houses in the country districts of Licking county and elsewhere. In our township alone there are probably 25. Compare this if you will with the report of the comptroller of the corporations Williams that the National banks of the country last year paid 20 per cent upon their capital and banks have a six hour a day with all holidays and Sundays off.

In conclusion the above report from Charles E. Thorne, director, says that "while the farmer is getting more dollars for his labor than ever before, at no time except during the civil war will his dollar purchase so little of other labor on commodities as at the present time." Nor is it necessary for a farmer to go outside of Newark to prove this fact.

Your editorial suggests that corporative farming might reduce the cost of food, but the above statement of Dr. Thorne, who is one of the best authorities in the United States, does not bear out that statement. One of the gravest dangers that confronts this country today is this corporation farming which is being championed by a lot of visionaries who think that all the country needs is a lot of cheap food. With corporation farming and cheap food will come a condition in the country districts that will place this country back where Germany is or was, and where are boasted democracy will become a hollow mockery. For with corporation farming will come a landed aristocracy with a peasant class little better than slaves. The greatest service Mr. Editor that you and all other newspaper men can render the nation today is to defend the American farmer and see that he gets a just share of what he produces, and his family may enjoy the blessings of civilization the same as other men, and that they may be content to remain upon the farm as owners of the same and produce the best of food to feed you people who are engaged in other occupations. But the American farmer of the future is not going to work 12 to 18 hours per day holidays and half of Sunday, and trade his labor for that which works but 6 and 8 hours, for a day wage with extra for overtime, holidays and Sundays. Everything the farmer buys, from a toothpick to a tractor is made, transported and sold on an eight hour basis, and practically everything he sells is handled in the same way, so that it is a very difficult matter to convince the American farm boy that it is to his benefit to remain upon the farm and work long hours at low wages to produce cheap food, for those who work short hours for high wages.

A VOICE FROM THE TOMBS.

(Philadelphia Record)

If there is anything in Senator Harding's denunciation of the President's idealism, as he calls it, it is the voice of the ghost of the Federal party.

That party has been dead for a century. It died of distrust of the people. It perished because it was afraid of democracy. The Republican Democratic party, or the Jeffersonian party, has survived all vicissitudes of our politics. The Federal party had a short career. It was succeeded by the Whig party, and that by the Republican party, but some elements of Federalism appear to have survived.

Senator Harding finds that the President's address stimulate Bolshevism. When the President called on the country to fight for democracy against autocracy he was turning the Reds loose on the world. It sounds very much like the speeches of the Federalists against Thomas Jefferson. Mr. Harding does not go back far enough in seeking the inspiration of the Bolshevik. He ought logically to find it in the Declaration of Independence. The Federalists showed a good distrust of their government and their fear that it would be taken seriously.

Their fears were mostly confined to their own country, but they were not slow to find the lascivious doctrines of the immortal Declaration in the French Reign of Terror, just as Mr. Harding finds the pernicious influence of the President's idealism in the ravages of the Bolsheviks.

DAILY HEALTH TALKS

The Troubles Women Have

BY L. MAC LEAN, M. D.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is precisely what it was. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. Favorite Prescription is a distinct remedy for women and acts directly upon the organs that characterize the sex. It is not necessary to take a long course of treatment with this standard medicine.

All women who suffer from feminine disorders are invited to write the Faculty of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential consultation and advice, no charge being made for this high professional service.

This will enable every woman to benefit by the advice of the distinguished corps of physicians which Dr. Pierce has gathered about him in his celebrated Buffalo institution.

When constipation is present with feminine disorders, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken along with Favorite Prescription. Try them now!

A joint installation of Camps Maple Leaf and Eureka, Royal Neighbors and Camps Ohio and Case, Modern Woodmen, N. C. Sherburn, state deputy was present and gave a very interesting talk on the welfare of the orders.

Quite a number of Newark and nearby friends of Emma Wallace congregated at the home of W. E. Wallace on Wednesday evening in celebration of her eighty-third birthday.

The surprise was complete as the crowd appeared on the scene all at the same time, and the aged lady was seemingly young again as the many guests passed through the sitting room and extended to her the right hand of fellowship and many good wishes and congratulations of the event.

The invitations for the party was given out by Charles M. Pitler, Mrs. Ned Vogeimeier and Mrs. Emma Low, Chas. M. Pitler being master of ceremonies.

Supper was served from 9 to 11, supper being furnished in most part by guests. Mrs. Ned Vogeimeier eighty-three candles which were lighted at supper.

SPOILED BIG WEDDING FEAST

How Ex-German Emperor Upset Dinner on Which Herr Ballin Had Spent Much Money.

Herr Ballin was noted for the extravagant dinners which he gave on great occasions, says the Edinburgh Scotsman. Probably the most magnificent of all was that which he arranged to grace the wedding of the kaiser's daughter to the duke of Brunswick. The floral decorations alone cost $10,000. The dinner worked out at about $85 a plate, and the wines at about $50. But the dinner, from Herr Ballin's point of view, was a failure, for the kaiser and kaisserin, who were to have been present, sent word in the afternoon that they could not come; and it was in their honor, of course, that Herr Ballin had spent his thousands on the banquet. One of his servants has said that when Herr Ballin received the message that the emperor could not come, he flew into a tremendous rage. He sent for his butler, and ere the man had reached Herr Ballin's study, his master shouted out to him: "The emperor cannot come to dinner tonight—put the whole show off!"

WIRE BRIEFS

Paris—Publication of President Wilson's speech to a delegation representing the working women of France, discloses that peace conference may not touch on the suffrage question.

Paris—It was reported President Wilson's speech and Premier Clemenceau's guidance appear all nations, at first objecting to the League of Nations' resolution, ultimately adopted unanimously.

Washington—Pershing reports that 105,752 Americans are still in army hospitals overseas.

Lisbon—The Portuguese cabinet has resigned.

Amsterdam—Czech troops have captured Oderburg from the Poles, according to dispatch from the Breslau national council.

Paris—Food Administrator Hoover in a statement, averred the food problem of the United States is a bigger one than that of Chicago packers.

Washington—Farmers of the United States urged by the department of agriculture to return to sound farm practices again.

Columbus—The executive committee of the Ohio State Federation of Labor adopted resolutions to urge the general assembly to adopt an eight-hour-day for continuous industries.

Tells of Influenza Remedy

Inez Burns, Washington, D. C.—"Working in Washington—Contracted Spanish Influenza. Started taking Hull's Superlative. Overcame the disease quickly. Am feeling fine." Your druggist has Hull's Superlative. (Advt.)

"Old Clothes to Mend."

Chinese merchants who want a bit of mending done never have to go very far, for there are neediewomen seated along the street ready to sew and mend. Sometimes these workers sit on low stools and sometimes on the sidewalks, but there they sit sewing away hard, for they never are short of patrons. These women are generally the wives of fishermen or boatmen and are glad to get the little "odds and ends" of work to help increase the family income.

Riches in Pine Waste.

The industrial value of a full-grown pine tree is no less than five times what we get from it. If of all the yellow pine cut, the entire trees were used, not only as theoretical science, there would be added to the estate of the American people every day 40,000 tons of paper, 3,000 tons of resin, 300,000 gallons of turpentine and 600,000 gallons of ethyl or grain alcohol, together with the fuel for these industries and the lumber we get as it is. Of course this would require a heavy expenditure of capital and a large amount of labor, but the facts remain.

Science.

Only things in nature proved, not beyond a reasonable doubt, but beyond any doubt, can be classed under the majestic word science. The slightest trace, or even suspicion, of doubt will exclude instantly any assertion, statement or hypothesis from being placed in a list of laws of nature, and shift them all over to the extensive catalogue of theories.

Optimistic Thought.

It is honorable to be accused by those who deserve to be accused.

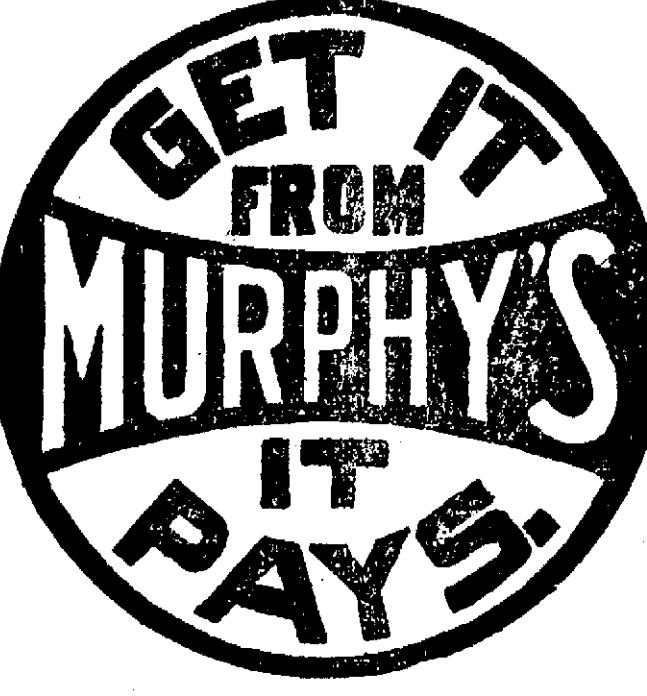

With the whole country going dry what will become of the manufacturing of raincoats and umbrellas?

Where Methodist Eyes of the World Will Center Next June and July

Glimpse of Magnificent Exposition Grounds at Columbus, O., being prepared for a display of Methodist activities from all parts of the globe. Insert shows Dr. D. D. Forsyth, Philadelphia, Chairman of the Joint Centenary Committee of the M. E. Church.

COLUMBUS, O. (Special)—Methodist ministers and laymen to the number of several thousands are getting their concrete notions of what the Methodist Centenary Celebration, to be held here June 20 to July 7, will be like. Attending a special regional meeting, at which men like Bishop Wilson, R. A. Ward and Fred B. Fisler of New York; Bishop McDowell, Washington; Bishop Warne, India; S. Earl Taylor, director general of the celebration; D. D. Forsyth, Philadelphia; C. F. Reisner, New York; Edgar Blake, Chicago, and R. S. Cushman, New York, are speakers, they have still enjoyed an opportunity to visit the exposition grounds where for weeks past work has been in progress preparing for the tremendous celebration for which it is expected that more than 100,000 Methodists will journey to Columbus from all parts of the United States.

The spacious buildings already provided by the state of Ohio are being modified and extended to meet the peculiar needs of the Methodist Celebration. This will visualize to pastor and laymen the work of the church at home and the work of the church abroad. Here will be seen, with all the fidelity and detail of a world exposition, the natives of all the countries in which the Methodist church operates as a missionary force. Here, too, will be set forth all the work in this country. Essentially the entire world of Methodism will be brought to Columbus and displayed in its original colors and with all the circumstance and surrounding of its various habitats on the globe.

Two special pageants are being planned and many lesser ones. A climax of the celebration will be a symbolic representation of the drawing together of all the nations of the earth through the gospel of Christ.

In order to care for the throngs that are certain to be in attendance an extensive hospital already has been organized. Registrations and reservations already are being made for interested Methodists throughout the United States.

H. B. Fletcher, organizing secretary of the Centenary Celebration, is occupying two entire floors of a large office building, with the incidental corps of assistants to take care of the work.

AMUSEMENTS

ALHAMBRA.

"Nine-Tenths of the Law."

The Alhambra today and tomorrow offers a wonderful playlet in "Nine-Tenths of the Law" in which the clever actor, Mitchell Lewis is the star.

A little boy is stolen from the home of a wealthy family in Vancover by "Bell" Adair, a bad man, who, with his partner, lives in a shack in the Canadian woods. While the kidnappers are preparing to negotiate with the Vancover family, the boy wanders away from the shack, and, lost in the woods at night, falls into a bear trap set by Lepage, "Little Roughtneck," this a niche in the lives of Jules and Jules' baby, who shortly before when their baby died, Lepage always Adair and Pappin when they try to regain possession of the child, and it is not until Adair is dead that Jules learns to whom the child belongs. After a struggle, Jules consents to Jules returning to the kidnappers, and in Vancover, the kidnappers learn that the boy was left with the kidnappers when his mother, a housekeeper in the home of the judge, died, and because of their kindness to the child, the judge permits them to keep "Little Roughtneck" finally.

In the east basket, Mr. Lewis is seen Miss Lillian's early screen engagement was with the Kalem company in which she performed to the Hollywood in an important role in "From the Manger to the Cross." Gladys Leslie, who has gained international fame as a creator of beautiful and striking dances, and who is now achieving distinction as an emerald actress, has for years aspired to interpret the role of Juliet. This may seem strange to those who have seen her when she popularized Juliet in America as the star of "Stop! Look! Listen!" I have read the most beautiful of love tragedies ever and over again," said Gladys recently. "And I have wept the pages with my tears. In all of the great dramas of youth, love, and of exquisitely beautiful sentiments, there is none to surpass this—nor even the work of any of our great masters of French fiction."

Juliet is a declining child and a precocious young woman in one and another—the universal idea. And let me tell you, though some of my friends think me odd, my ambition, every woman, no matter what her temperament, might be seen in Juliet some expression of what she thinks she herself possesses."

It may be that Gladys Leslie is well on the road to the realization of her ambition, for she has the strongest emotional part of her career in the latest Pathé Special Feature, "Infatuation," a personification of Michel Léglise's delightful romance, produced in France by Louis Marceau and directed by Louis Marceau. It will be shown at the Auditorium this evening.

AUDITORIUM.

"Tarzan." Tonight. The Romance of Tarzan, which is now showing at the Auditorium, depicts the concluding chapters of "Tarzan of the Apes" in a manner that impresses the strong impression made by the original drama.

A fine program pictures the main incidents in the life of Tarzan previous to the beginning of the story.

LYRIC.

The "American Follies." Arthur G. Heigher presents the "American Follies" in their second week of popularity at the Lyric theatre. There will be three new programs this evening, Monday and Tuesday being added to the regular program.
